Even if you prefer a no fuss look, some basic styling helps your hair system look natural and well-groomed.

Here's a simple styling routine:

- Comb before washing: This helps remove tangles, making it easier to comb when wet.
- Wash gently: Use warm, not hot, water and soft hands to wash away oils.
- Air dry first: Let your toupee air dry 60-90% before using a hairdryer to minimize heat exposure. If you're not going out, aim for 100% air drying.
- Comb when wet: You can comb your hair system when it's wet and well-conditioned, using a wide-toothed comb. Be careful not to pull too hard to avoid damage.
- Blow dry for shape: For added bounce and lift, let your hair system air dry as much as possible. Then, use a high-speed blow dryer on a LOW heat setting. Use a round brush to guide the hair in the direction you want it to sit.
- Apply leave-in conditioner: This is a crucial final step. Unlike natural hair, toupees don't receive moisture from scalp oils (sebum). A leave-in conditioner will rehydrate your hair system and keep it looking healthy.

Following these steps will help you maintain a polished look and protect your hair system, ensuring it lasts longer.
